Ad-hoc release Siemens Energy: Dividend restriction already lifted for FY 2025

The Budget Committee of the German Federal Parliament today lifted Siemens Energy's dividend restriction already for the fiscal year 2025. This means that the dividend restriction ends one year earlier than initially scheduled.

Siemens Energy has a dividend policy to distribute 40% to 60% of the Net income attributable to shareholders of Siemens Energy AG. The decision on a proposal for a dividend distribution for fiscal year 2025 is expected to be made by the responsible bodies in November 2025.

The dividend restriction was originally linked to the counter-guarantee provided by the German Federal Government in support of a guarantee facility extended by a consortium of banks. The dividend restriction was lifted in connection with the early replacement of this guarantee line in June 2025 and, as a result, the termination of the Government's counter-guarantee.

Siemens Energy AG is also guarantor for the mandatory convertible bond with ISIN DE000A3K81W7 and the bonds with ISIN XS2601458602 and XS2601459162.

Maria Ferraro, CFO of Siemens Energy, says:
"I am very pleased with this decision which enables us to pay a dividend to our shareholders earlier than expected. Following our early exit from the federal Bund Back Guarantee and full replacement of the Syndicated Guarantee Facility, this is the next progressive step – a clear signal of Siemens Energy's operational performance in the last quarters and solid financial foundation. We now revert to the relevant governance process and appropriate steps to approve the potential dividend payout. Our way forward is clear: we remain focused on operational excellence and profitable growth – ensuring that our shareholders can continue to place their confidence in Siemens Energy for the long term."
